Secondary Referencing Guidance

In-text citation - Direct quoting example
“The suggestion that all humans may be cloned is rejected by all health professionals” (Burnard, 2009, quoted in Murray, 2013, p. 82).

In-text citation – Paraphrasing example
Health professionals dismiss the idea that all humans may be cloned (Burnard, 2009, cited in Murray, 2013, p. 82).

In-text citation – Paraphrasing example
Murray’s conclusion (2013, p. 82) supports the views of Burnard (2009, quoted in Murray, 2013, p. 82) on human cloning.

Reference list
The book by Murray should be included in the reference list because you have read it. Do not include the work by Burnard because you have not read it.

General Tips

Aim for consistency as random mistakes are much more noticeable.

- Page Numbers within In-Text Citations
  - You need to include page numbers when making a direct quote, or when you are paraphrasing a specific idea or piece of information that can be found on a particular page or set of pages. Sometime you may find that you are summarizing an entire article or discussing a theme that runs through the whole of your source, in this case, you would not need page numbers.

- 4 or More Authors
  - Use et al. when there are over 3 authors (4 or more) for your in-text citations and reference list. For example:
    - In-text citation
      Smith et al. (2012, p. 88) OR (Smith et al., 2012, p. 88)
    - Reference list
      Smith, M. et al. (2012)

- Editions
  - These are not needed for 1st editions. Include edition statement for any other edition e.g. 2nd edn. including revised editions e.g. 3rd rev. edn.

- Direct Quotations and In-Text Citations
  - These are included in your word count.
  - Your reference list is not included in the word count.

- Same Author and Date
  - In order to differentiate sources with the same author and date, use lower case letters (in alphabetical order) after the publication date e.g. Department of Health (2014a), Department of Health (2014b) etc.
